If you want your work to achieve the impossible, you will need Brutal Simplicity of Thought. You will need a deep distaste for waffle, vagueness, platitudes and flim flam – a strong preference to get to the point. Your mind will become a threshing machine, sorting the intellectual wheat from the chaff.

Austin and Caleb pulled into my driveway and cut off the engine. "Do you want us to hang here a bit?" Asked Austin, turning around in the driver's seat to look at me. I nodded. "I haven't hung out with you guys in so long, so yes please." Austin and Caleb chuckled. "We missed you too." We climbed out of Austin's car and headed inside.
